Resolution Looking to Recognition of Belligerent Rights

INTRODUCED IN THE SENATE.

It Is the First Step in the Direction of the Recognition of the Island's Independence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 29.-The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations has agreed to report a resolution on the Cuban question. The resolution does not go quite

"Resolved. By the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring, that the present deplorable war in the Island of Cuba has reached a magnitude that concerns all civilized nations to the extent that it should be conducted, if unhappily it is longer to continue, on those principles and laws of warfare that are acknowledged to be obligatory hostilities, including the treatment of captives who are enlisted in either army, due respect to cartels for exchange of prisoners and for other military purposes; truces and flags of truce; the provision of proper hospitals and hospital supplies and services to

Resolved, That this representation of the views and opinion of Congress be sent that he will, in a friendly spirit, use the good offices of this Government to the end that Spain shall be requested to accord to the armies with which it is engaged in war the rights of belligerents as the same are recognized under the law of nations."

Mr. Morgan (D.) Alabama, from the Com mittee on Foreign Relations, very promptly after the Senate proceedings began today, reported on the resolution for the rec day, reported on the resolution for the recognition of the belligerent rights of the Cuban insurgents. The Senator read the report in fall, stating that it favored action on a substitute resolution.

The resolution was accompanied by a report. The report says:
"The Congress of the United States deeply regretting the unhappy state of hostilities existing in Cuba, which has again been the result of the demand of a large number of the native population of that island for its independence, in a spirit of respect and regard for the welfare of both countries earnestly desires that the security of life and property and the establishment of permanent peace and of a Government that is satisfactory to the people of Cuba, should be accomplished."

accomplished."

The reading of the resolution and report was followed by close attention by Senators.

Mr. Cameron (Rep.), Pennsylvania, presented a minority report on the Cuban resolution, from the Committee on Foreign Relations. Mr. Cameron's resolution was a brief request on the President to interpose his friendly offices for the recognition of the independence of Cuba. The report reviewed the course of President Grant during the former Cuban revolt, in seeking to secure the independence of Cuba.

"And to the extent that the people of Cuba are seeking the rights of local self-government for domestic purposes, the Congress of the United States expresses its earnest sympathy with them. The Congress would also welcome with satisfaction the concession by Spain of complete sovereignty to the people of that island and would cheerfully give to such a voluntary concession the condal support of the United States.

States.
"The near proximity of Cuba to the frontier of the United States and the fact that it is universally regarded as a part of the continental system of America, identifies that island so closely with the political and commercial welfare of our people that Congress cannot be indifferent to the fact that civil war is flagrant among the people of Cuba."

The report them sate forth that it is in that it is universally regarded as a part of the continental system of America, identifies that island so closely with the political and commercial welfare of our people that Congress cannot be indifferent to the fact that civil war is flagrant among the people of Cuba."

The report then sets forth that it is impossible to longer overlook the fact that the destructive character of the war is doing serious harm to the rights and interests of our people on the island and to our lawful commerce, the protection and freedom of which is safeguarded by treaty obligations. It is recalled that in former wars of the same character as the present, the United States has always observed all of its duties towards the beligrents. This, the report says, was a difficult task but it was performed with impartiality and justice in the hope that Spain would so ameliorate the condition of the Cuban people as to give them peace, contentment and justice in the hope that Spain would so ameliorate the condition of the Cuban people as to give them peace, contentment and justice from any interference on the part of ur people or the Government, or the people of Cuba against Spanish authority. This distrust has often become a source of serious annoyance to our people, and has led to a spirit of retailation toward Spanish authority in Cuba, thus giving rise to frequent controversies."

Reference is made to the absence of responsibility of the Government as to the fidelity of our controversies."

Reference is made to the absence of responsibility of the Government in Cuba as a cause of delay of protracted imprisonhe strife the unruly elements of neighboring countries."

"This civil war, though it is great in its proportions, and is conducted by armies that are in complete organization and directed and controlled by supreme military authority, has not a safeguard of a cartel for the treatment of wounded soldiers or prisoners of war."

In this feature of the warfare it becomes a duty of humanity that civilized powers should insist upon the applications of the laws of war recognized among civilized nations to both armies.

As our own people are drawn into this struggle on both sides, and enter either army without the consent of our Government and inviolation of our laws, their treatment when they may be wounded or captured, although it is not regulated by treaty and ceases to be a positive care of our Government, should not be left to the revengeful retailations which expose them to the fate of pirates or rather felons.

Attention is called to the inability of Spain to deal with the revolutionists as a misfortune which it is unfair to visit upon the United States.

"It is due," the report concludes, "to the situation of affairs in Cuba that Spain should recognize the existence of a state of war in the island and should voluntarily accord to the armies opposed to her authority the rights of belligerents under the laws of nations."

thority the rights of belligerents under the laws of nations."

Following is the text of the resolution reported by Senator Cameron as a substitute for the Cuban resolution reported by the Senate Committee on Foreign Resolutions:

Resolved, That the President is hereby requested to interpose his friendly offices with the Spanish Government for the recognition of the independence of Cuba.

Mr. Cameron submitted a long report upon the substitute, reviewing the historical part of the Cuban affair and the course of Grant during the Cuban affair and the course of Grant during the Cuban affair and the course of Grant during the Cuban affair in recognizing the Confederate States during the American civil war and the failure to recognize the Cuban in insurgents as belligerents.

The minority report also states that shortly after Mr. Blaine became Secretary of State he sought to secure the independence of Cuba, but the project failed by the absolute refusal of Spain to consider the release of her colony.

Coming down to the present condition of affairs, the minority report declares that a state of war now exists in Cuba. The Southern Confederacy, it says, had been recognized by Great Britain, France and Spain before a battle had been fought. Belligerency is a question of fact and should be recognized whenever it in fact exists.

Warfare implies belligerency.

"In July last they had advanced westward until near Havana, having overrun the entire island and threatened the capital. Such action established belligerency as a question of fact beyond doubt."

In conclusion the report urges it to be an imperative duty that belligerency be accorded and that the President further move toward the independence of the island.

Both resolutions were placed on the calendar.

Meaning of Belligerent Rights.

Meaning of Belligerent Rights.

It is the custom of nations not to concede the rights of belligerents to the people of any country in armed revolt against the established government of the insurgents has a stability and a solidity such as to justify the conclusion that they are more than a mere rabble—that they are a sufficiently supported de facto power to give promise of the eventual success of their arms.

The recognition of belligerency carries with it, by the usages of nations, obligations and duties on the part of the Government conceding it. In this case of Cuba it throws the mantle of American protection over American citizens who may be in the ranks of the rebells. It is difficult to say how far this protection could be extended to Cesnero, the chief of the rebellion—the head of the Government—or to Buondo, its Secretary of War, who both claim citizenship in this country. The Spanish theory that the uprising is a mere invasion of plunderers and brigands would make anybody taken from their ranks liable to punishment as murderers, thieves and incendiaries. A recognition of their belligerency would, on the other hand, require their treatment by the rules of war.

If the insurgents are recognized as bellighand, require their treatment by the rules of war.

If the insurgents are recognized as belligerents the Cubans would have the right to buy arms in this country, and rush them to Cuba if they could get them across the three-mile sea limit.

Spain hesitates now to declare a blockade against the Cuban ports because such a declaration would be equivalent to her recognition of the insurgents as belligerents. But if she were to make the declaration her right to overhaul American vessels suspected of having goods contraband of war in in their holds, wherever they might be encountered, would be undisputed. Her naval marine would be authorized to call a half upon ships flying the American colors, not only within the three-mile limit, but anywhere upon the high seas, and compel an exhibition of their passports and of their cargo certificates.

ington, D. C., says: "There is a curfous rumor afloat here to the effect that the true story has not yet been told as to the alleged wreck of the steamer Hawkins, which had just set out to carry a load of men and ammunition to Cuba. Some people close to the revolutionists say the whole thing is a 'plant' and that the Spanish Minister and the United States suthorities have been cleverly foiled.

"For some reason that cannot be definitely traced there is a belief in the Cuban telory that the arms supposed to have been on the Hawkins were either transshipped at sec or else were sent out secretly on some other vessel, and that suspicion was intentionally directed against the Hawkins for the purpose of throwing the Spanish sples and the United States revenue authorities off the track.

People here are wondering what the steamship was doing on Long Island Sound if it was en route to Cuba. Minister De Lome was apparently supplied with the fullest information is regard to the movements of the steamer Hawkins, and acting on his instructions, officers of the navy and revenue marine were instructed to look after the steamer and its intended consort all the way from Hampton Roads to Tampa. While the stories of the survivors appear to read straight enough, the general opinion is there has been something procked about the whole transaction.

"It is known here now that in a previous case the Cuban revolutionary committee supplied the Spanish Minister with false information regarding an alleged fillustering expedition, and than while he was busily

'Katy Flyer' Crashes Into a Fast Freight at Full Speed.

PANIC AMONG PASSENGERS.

It Is Thought That a Tramp May Have Been Buried Under the

On the top of a steep embankment, six miles north of the Court-house, an incoming passenger train on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway collided with an out-going freight at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday

Four freight cars were sent crashing down the side of a steep embankment, and the engine of the passenger train was badly smashed.

Two tramps had been stealing a ride on the freight. One of them was seen to jump off and run down the side of the track just before the colision. His companion got off on the other side, and may have been caught beneath the wreck.

His hat was found near the track. The tramp who was riding with him said he knew nothing about the other fellow. He was riding in the front end of a flat car, standing on the "bumper."

and according to Condustor Smith the freight had orders to side track a half mile away.

It is supposed that the engineer thought of the instructions when it was too late, and then tried to rush across the M. K. & T. tracks. If the passenger had been a half minute late the accident would not have happened.

The passenger train was well crowded. A large number of persons boarded it at Bowling Green, among them Alexander Stephens, brother of the State Treasurer. Full steam was on and the coaches rolled violently on the tracks.

A mile more and they would have to slow down to city time. Calvary Cemetery was in sight. There was a sharp curve in the road and on the other side was the crossing. The freight reached it first, at full speed. It was still dark. The engineer on the freight saw the flickering of the headlight on the "Fiver." The "warming" whistle was given, but it was too late.

The engineer on the passenger reversed the 5hrottle-just as his engine smashed into the flat cars loaded with gravel.

Passengers were thrown out of their seats. Windows in the cars were broken, and the lights in the cars were broken, and the light in the cars were broken and the light in the care were broken and the was light and the same light in the care were broken and the light in the care were broke Alex Stephens was seen at the Southern Hotel, where he is stopping. "There was considerable excitement and a rain of gravel but that was all," said Mr. a rain of gravel but that was all," said Mr. Stephens. "The flat cars were loaded with sand and gravel, and the air was thick with it after the 'set-to'. No one was hurt and every one seemed happy enough to have escaped so lucky. Conductor Smith told me that the 'Flyer' was on time to the second and that this accident was due to the failure of the freight to side track. The engineer and fireman stuck bravely to their posts and brought the engine to a standstill. It would have roiled down the embankment had they deserted it. The crew on the passenger deserve much credit for their work."

The "Katy Flyer" was in a collision two weeks ago when the fireman was killed. That accident was also due to the failure of a freight train crew to carry out orders.

WILD BUFFALO IN TEXAS. Reorganization of a Hunting Party to Capture Them.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 29.-The herd of wild buffalo which appeared in Brewster County about two years ago, and then crossed the line into Mexico, has been sighted again in Pecos County, near the Rio Grande border, by Sam Hillington, a stockman. Mr. Hillington innmediately sent a letter to Dr. J. B. Taylor of this city, informing him that the number of buffalo in the herd is about sixty, 'including several calves. Dr. Taylor will at once take steps toward reorganizing the expedition which will have for its object the capture of the buffalo and confining them on Dr. Taylor's ranch near San Angelo. Gov. Culbertson and a number of the most prominent sportsmen of the country will be invited to join the expedition. The Smithsonian Institution will also have a representative in the party. STAID SENATE. Tillman Denounces Cleveland as

CARLISLE THE SOUTH'S JUDAS

Remarkable Speech by the Populist Senator Scourging the Administration on Its Financial Policy.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 29 .- The Ser ate looked for something out of the com-mon when it was announced that Populat Benjamin R. Tillman of South Carolina Benjamin R. Tillman of Source would speak on the bond bill. The expected happened. A more remarkable speech was delivered in the chamber. The Bennever delivered in the chamber. The Sen-ator has the reputation of saying just what he thinks and in the plainest and most direct words. This characteristic stood out all through his speech to-day.

Of President Cleveland's financial policy he said: "With relendless purpose he has ignored his oath of office and has paid out gold instead of coin. To this besotted tyrant coin has come to mean gold alone."

Carlisle he called "this Judas from Kentucky, who, after a brilliant career of twenty years as champion of the silver forces, has come to this pitiful pass." The deal with the gold syndicate was summed in these words: "Great God, that this proud Government—the richest, most powerful on the globe—should have been brought to so low a pass that a London Jew should have been appointed its receiver." The Senator's speech follows:

"Mr. President," the Senator began, "it

Increase the Senator asserted, and no hint any loss of confidence in the national dit until about the time of the last presital election. Then for the first time got a glimpse of the conspiracy which had referred to before. Secretary Foshes and Treasury notes the option of ring Government paper cashed in gold silver, and as they all demanded gold, gold in the Treasury rapidly ran down. a financial papers took up the cry of country going to a silver basis, and the t premonitory breezes of the panic of a swept over the land and the conspirars fomented it by every possible means. The Senator quoted from Fresident Cieved's response to the committee that notified him of his nomination the last time and dared there was nothing in it to warrant to expect that the leader of the Demonite party would ignore the platform and at with contepmt the trusted lieutenants om the people had sent to the national situal to assist in shaping legislation. The guage would lead us to expect the very erse. How many, he asked, of these sonable expectations have been met.

power had left a large number of offices in his gift with which to buy votes."

In discussing the "honest meaning" of parity of gold and sliver in the Sherman law, he said: "The object was to have them assist each other, to hold sliver up by holding gold down, and an honest Secretary of the Treasury, who should have resigned his office rather than submit to the dictation of a besotted chief, would have paid out silver to protect the Treasury from the gold gamblers and bond gamblers, as the law and his oath of office required. No wonder the Senator from Massachusetts feels warranted in twitting us with the decay of Southern statesmanship and charging us with dishonesty. He charges it, however, in another connection, and as alding and abetting this Judas from Kentucky, who, after a brilliant career of twenty years or more as the leader and champion of the silver forces, has in his old age come to this pitiful pass. And then to think that the indictment thus brought against a whole section should have so much color of truth and of fact to back it up in the apestacy from their principles of the two other Secretaries from the South in the Cabinet of a President who so disgraced the name of Democracy.

"The South bows its head in shame at this mocracy.

"The South bows its head in shame at this hibition of moral cowardice and despises chains were riveted on the wrists of the tolling millions. Did the raid on the Treasury stop?"

Discussing then the tariff bill which passed in the regular session following, he said: "It is true he (the President) did not wign it and allowed it to become a law without approval, but here again we have a spectacle of chariatanry and hypocritical assumption of superiority to his party which his always marked his career. The tariff law which he repudiated as unworthy, involving 'party perfidy and party dishonor,' is the sheet anchor to which he clings."

And again, referring to the President: "If he was honest at the start (and I am willing to grant that much) his association with Wall street and his connection with wealthy men has debauched his conscience and destroyed all sympathy with the masses,"

Further on, in discussing the gold ques-tion, the Senator said: "Rothschild and his American agents graciously condescend is come to the help of the United States Treasury in maintaining the gold standard, which has wrought the ruin, and only charges a small commission of ten millions

Now Kawamata with great scorn asserts that Fundig pretends to be Japanese, and he cites the fact that beneath his stragiht black hair will be found a beautifully braided pig tail. This is the solemn truth, but then the Chinamen says he only wears the wig for business reasons, and scorns the accusation that he is ashamed of his race.

The trouble which has resulted in the present notoriety culminated Saturday evening at Fundig's store. According to the Jap he went around there to order 3,000 napkins. He broached the subject to Miss Gray, and while he was talking with her about it, he declares, Fundig ordered him out.

He is a Chinaman, who pretends to be a Japanese," he went on to say. "You look under his wig and you will find his cue. You just look."

Of course this is not all Kawamata said, nor just exactly the way he said it, for he disclosed the whole case in language that might not be understood were it put down literally, but then it gives one an idea of the way he feels toward his rival.

The Post-Dispatch reporter also dropped in on Fungdig at his bazaar, and, much to his surprise, this worthy approached him with a "pig tail" coiled around the top of his head. He was both affable and communicative. He proceeded to deny that he had drawn a pistoil on the Jap, but admitted that he had ordered him out of the store. While he talked he walked back to his desk, ploked up his hat, pulled out his wig and provider.

FAIR AMERICAN THE CAUSE

M. Fungdig and G. Kawamata Madly Jealous of Each Other Over Love for Miss Maude Gray.

St. Louis has a little Chinese-Japanese war of its own. But it is not over the acquisition of territory or an affront to national honer. Love is at the bottom of it all and the fires of jealousy are added to the fierce heat of racial prejudice.

Gidon Kawamata is the representative of the Yankees of the Orient and S. M. Fundig is the son of the Celestial Empire. These two are at it hammer and tongs through the fascination of a fair American girl and the verdict between them is to be rendered next Tuesday in the First District Police Court.

Kawamata accuses Fundig of threatening his life with a revolver simply because Miss Maude Gray, who works for Fundig, prefers his attentions rather than the Chinaman's, but Fundig denies this most strenuously and offers to prove his good character by all kinds of witnesses, Christian and heathen.

Kawamata is a salesman in the Japanese store of A. Katamatau at Eighth and Locust street. He has been in this country about four years. He is rather a nice looking chap, about 50 years old, with a full black beard of which he is very proud and which he declared in a burst of condence is the joy of his lady love's heart.

Fundig is the proprietor of the Japanese bazar at 1110 Olive street, so it may be that a little business rivalry enters also into the controversy. Although he is a Chinaman, he looks much like a Jap, and is often taken for one of the latter race, He has no beard, save a slight mustache, but he speaks English much better than his rival, having been in this country longer and attended American schools. As an added distinction he is an honored member of the Second Presbyterian Church, by reason of which fact he has largely increased his trade.

Now Kawamata with great scorn asserts that Fundig pretends to be Japanese, and Gray, and while he was talking with her about it, he declares, Fundig ordered him out.

Before he could understand choroughly the meaning of such conduct, he says, the Chinaman pulled out a pistol and he evacuated immediately in fear of his life. This is the story he told Monday at the First District Police Court, when he secured a summons against Fundig, charging him with having disturbed his peace.

Kamawata explains the Chinaman's precipitous conduct on the ground that the latter's mind is affected by reason of Miss Gray's coldness toward him. He makes bold to announce that he and Miss Gray are engaged to be married and that the wedding is to take place in May. But there is many a slip 'twixt che engagement ring and the wedding knot and the son of the Mikado hab better look well to his fences, for 5th young lady herself says that it's no cinch about the marriage.

Already Miss Gray is on the Chinaman's side in the dispute of Saturday night. She says that no gun was drawn and that Fungdig ordered Kawamata out at her request, so that it is easy to see all is not plain sailing ahead for the sanguine lover. He was seen this morning at his place of business and told his story with a merry twinkle in his eye, save when he touched on the possibility of Fundig winning from him his intended bride. Then there was the utmost contempt expressed in his whole manner.

"He loves her," he said, "but she doesn't love him. We are to be married in May and thoy him. We are to be married in May and thoy him. We are to be married in May and the own him. We are to be married in May and the bow him. We are to be married in May and the bow him. We are to be married in May and the bow him. We are to be married in May and the bow him. We are to be married in May and the bow him. We are to be married in May and the bow him. We are to be married in May and the bow him. We are to be married in May and the bow him. We are to be married in May and the bow him. We are to be married in May and the bow him. We are to be married in May and the while he talked in a waiked back to his desk, polked up his hat, pulled out his wig and slipped it on right in front of the reporter.

"Kawamata came in here," he was saying" and talked for about two hours to Miss Maude. She didn't want him here. She was paid to wait on customers. Her mama told me to tell him to leave when he came bothering around here. I did so and at first he refused to go. Miss Maude wanted him to leave, but he insisted on taking her to the car. She refused to go with him and again I ordered him out. Then he went, but there was no pistol drawn for I have none."

"He says he is going to marry her next May," ventured the reporter.

"Well, we'll see," was the diplomatic response. "He thinks he can marry her because he has money, but a man can't do that in this country. He can pile up money as high as her head, but it is her heart he must win before he can get her in this country."

"Have you won her heart?"

"Though smiled and threw back his head, puffing the while at his cigarette.

"I don't like to talk about that," he began, coyly as a girl. "You see her parents object, and I wouldn't wish to marry her without their consent, for that would not be right. But she will not marry him you see. She does not like him to come here, but he comes anyway."

Then Fungdig went on to tell his views on the etiquette of calling. He thought the gentleman should call at the house. That was the way he did and he knew Mrs. Gray has requested Kawamata to do the sama thing if he was to see her daughter at all, As to the wig, he declared that he wore this for business reasons only, with no desire to conceal his nationality.

MAD SCRAMBLE FOR A BOOK.

Aptorney Noland and Dr. Bauer Had a Tug of War, While All Their Champions Talked at Once.

From a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

UNION, Mo., Jan. 22.—The defense was disappointed this morning when at 8:55 o'clock Judge Hirzel opened court and Mr. Zachritz put Sylvester Flynn on the stand. Mr. Dryden had expected Dr. Jos. Bauer to be called first, thing and had fortified himself. Accordingly he and his colleagues objected to Flynn's testifying first.

Flynn was the turnkey at the Fifth District Sub-station, and had charge of Duestrow when he was locked up for the killing. Flynn said to the prisoner:

"You are in a bad fix, aren't you?"

"I don't know," he replied.

Dr. Bauer was then called. The State submitted a hypothetical question, depicting Louis Duestrow and his wife as moderate drinkers and Arthur as a 1zzy and hard-drinking man, overbearing and degraded.

Mr. Booth devoted a large portion of the graded.

Mr. Booth devoted a large portion of the morning session to arguing objections to the question. The jury was ordered to re-tire during his talk.

There was an exciting scene in the court room yesterday afternoon. It was serious and at the same time ludicrous. Dr. Joseph L. Bauer of St. Louis was on the witness stand, firmly grasping a large book, which Charles Noland, one of the defendant's counsel, was vainly trying to take away from him.

Counsel for both ridge. ant's counsel, was vainly trying to take away from him.

Caunsel for both sides stood around the struggling pair, only ceasing their respective encouragement to each man, to shoot voiley upon voiley of objections at the court. Dr. Bauer was an expert for the State, and Mr. Zachritz, after the opening questions, asked him how many times he had visited Duestrow. Dr. Bauer immediately produced a large black book, in which he had made entries of his visits. As he opened it Mr. Noland stepped forward and seized it, while Gov. Johnson kept repeating "Pake it away." Noland pulled vigorously, and Dr. Bauer resisted with equally as much spirit. The doctor was in a good humor, and he smiled serenely on the excited features of Mr. Noland. Then Gov. Johnson came forward as amicus curiae.

"I would suggest that this fight stop and that Mr. Noland lay that book down until the Court passes on the defense's objection," he said.

the Court passes on the defense's objection, he said.

Mr. Noland might have seconded Gov. Johnson and placed the book on a table, but Dr. Bauer held it so firmly that he was obliged to continue tugging while Messrs. Zachritz, Meriwether, Gallenkamp, Bolte, Johnson, Dryden and Booth addressed the Court in one voice with a sad lack of harmony. At this juncture Mr. Noland, by a violent effort, managed to get the book. Then he laid it down and retreated. Judge Hirsel allowed Dr. Bauer to refer to the book and the defense took an exception to the ruling. Col. Dryden examined Dr. Bauer for the defense.

Witness told of his visits to Duestrow. The latter had said that everything he knew about hypnotism he had gleaned from Drs. J. K. and Keating Bauduy. Electro-therapeutics, capital punishment and smallpox had all been discussed in one breath while Dr. Bauer closely scrutinized the features and noted the actions of Duestrow. The latter had told witness that his defense at this trial would be acute alcoholic mania.

Dr. Bauer's reply to the question "Do you think Duestrow was shamming insentity?" was:

"He had no delusions and all that I no-you think Duestrow was snamming insanity?" was:

"He had no delusions and all that I noticed about him was an incongruous mass of words. This is no evidence of insanity."

Mr. Meriwether then put a hypothetical question touching on Duestrow's mental condition. The witness replied that the man could not possibly be insane.

"Suppose he accused his wife of keeping a disreputable house?" continued Mr. Meriwether.

william Washington, colored, called "Tag" for short, was the first witness called yesterday afternoon. He peddles crawfish and plays string music in certain districts in St. Louis. He was well acquainted with Duestrow.

On two occasions he had gone, at the request of the defendant, to serenade Clara Howard. The first occasion was one month before the killing.

"Have you ever seen Duestrow drunk?" was asked. "I have seen him feeling pratty lucky."

The star witness for the prosecution was Johann Toensfeldt, principal of the Educational Institute. Arthur entered Toensfeldt's School when 9 years old. At that time witness said he was a boy of good mental ability, and as a rule kept up better than half the class. This was while Louis Duestrow was moderately, fixed, and impressed the necessity of hard study and obddlence upon his boy. Young Duestrow kept advancing until he arrived at the higher classes. Just at this time Louis Duestrow awoke one morning and found himself a millionaire. From this time on Toensfeldt said Arthur began to neglect his studies and grow hay. Then he began falling back and finally he became so overbearing that he had to be taken away from the school. Louis Duestrow during all this time was letting Arthur have his own way. It was a powerful picture with a strong moral and Toensfeldt painted it in simple straightforward language, which made the impression more forcible.

The last witness was Albert M. Breme of

Have the Czar and the Sultan a Tacit Understanding?

THE REPORTS CONFLICT.

At Constantinople the Story Is Believed, but at the Russian Capital It Is Discredited.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 29.—It is be-lieved here that a tacit understanding exists between Russia and Turkey and that by its terms Russia has engaged to support Turkey in certain events, such as the passing of the Dardanelles by a British fleet. On the other hand, it is understood Turkey has agreed to permit Russia to occupy and pacify Armenia. The position of France in regard to the understanding between Russia and Turkey is much discussed here, and it is thought in certain circles that the republic will be constrained to separate herself from Russia, as the latter's policy is held to be opposed to French interests.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—A special to the Herald from St. Petersburg says: From information obtained on the best possible authority it can be stated that nothing is known here about the supposed treaty between Russia and Turkey.

The report of such a treaty caused a great deal of attention in diplomatic circles in St. Petersburg, but in the opinion of those best informed there is nothing more behind the report than the good understanding which prevails between the two countries. This was outlined ten days ago in an article referring to the visit of Aarin Pasha here with presents to the Car, a display of friendliness that arose because of the kind spirit shown by Nicholas II. toward the Sultan at the time when the other powers adopted a very menacing attitude. In diplomatic circles here the supposed treaty is not creatized at all. lomatic circles here the not credited at all.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 28.—A member of the Cabinet, when asked what he thought President Cleveland would do with the Armenian resolutions, said:

"I have not heard the question discussed, but I am inclined to think the President will send them to the European powers through the State Department as to do otherwise would be an affront to Congress. Russia or Great Britain may be glad to know that we appreciate the Armenian massacres, but, in my opinion it will not influence their future action in the slightest."

A leading member of the Foreign Affairs Committee says:

"I don't think the resolutions will have any effect whatever. The Sultan cares nothing for resolutions. He can beat us and the rest of the world at any time with paper diplomacy. The Turk is a good deal like our Indians were twenty-five years ago. The only argument they understood was bullets, with soldiers who knew how to use them. If we sen a fleet to Constantinople the Turk can understand that, If we go in with Russia or England to put a stop to the massacres they will know what that means, but so long as we confine ourselves to resolutions and think we have done our duty when we send memorials, the Porte quietly laughs at us and the massacres on."

Burial Permits.

Theodore Simonsen, a Laborer, Dying at the City Hospital.

HADMANY WILD ADVENTURES

Was Shipwrecked in the Arctics Served in Three Navies and Was Slave to an African King.

The span of life for Theodore Simonsen is slowly narrowing to a finale. While he may live for several days, death is inevitable. Simonsen entered the City Hospital Tuesday night for treatment. His whole constitution is badly impaired, and his heart very weak. A life of hardships and privations is the cause of his trouble. He tells a life's story that reads like a romance.

According to his statements his father, Manfred Simonsen, in early youth, went to Copenhagen from Germany. He apprenticed himself to the ship building trade and proved an apt pupil. He rose rapidly from the ranks and before many years was a master ship-builder of recognized ability. Money flowed his way, and at the age of 35 Simonsen found himself possessed of an independent fortune and retired from active business life.

Then he fell in love with and married Thekia Svondsen, the beautiful daughter of a wealthy Dane, with a pedigree dating back to the Niebelungen era.

A life of inactivity didn't suit the hardy, energetic Simonsen. He fretted and worried in the idle hours his wealth afforded. At last, able to bear restraint no longer, Simonsen fitted out a whaling expedition for the North Seas. The preparations made were extensive and with him Simonsen took his wife and 8-year-old son, Theodore. An euspicious start was made from Copenhagen and during the early part of the voyage it was smooth sailing, literally and figuratively.

and during the early part of the voyage it was smooth sailing, literally and figuratively.

Then came a squall. Some leagues off the coast of Greenland the Swan, Simon-sen's vessel, encountered an leeberg and was wrecked. Most of the crew, including the master's wife, were lost. Simonsen his son and six of the sailors were saved. For two days they drifted about on sparsfrom the wrecked vessel and were at last washed ashore on a small, barren, ice-covered island. Here starvation stared them in the face.

The shipwrecked band spent four agonising days on the desert island. Driven at last to desperation by the pangs of hunger, it was decided something must be done.

But what?

One life must be sacrificed for the common good. So lots were cast and little Theodore Simonsen drew the fatal judgment from which there was no appeal.

The father's frame of mind can be imagined. He pleaded with his comrades, but in vain.

Preparations for the execution were being made, when a sail was sighted in the distance. The famished sailors signalled, but received no response. Again and again they waved tattered garments and yelled as loud as their feeble lungs would allow them. Just as they were about to give up in despair a puff of smoke and muffled roar told they had been sighted. Soon a British brig hove into full view and rescued the shipwrecked sailors.

Simonsen and his son went back to Copenhagen and there new complications arose. Supposed-to-be profitable investments proved naught, and most of Simonsen's fortune was induced to enlist in the Emperor's navas service.

While doing marine duty during the Alge-rian war, about four years ago, Simonsen became separated from his company, was captured and carried towards the interior of Africa. There he was sold to a nasive chief, who used him as a slave, treated him outrageously and was about to send him further into the interior with a slave gang, when he escaped.

The Latest Interview With Mrs. E. Burke Collins.

no's Colory Compound Made Her Vig and Energetic.

Du Maurier has made Paris studios faliar to every one. But not until the ap earance of Mrs. E. Burke Collins' story of 'A Gilded God' did novel readers dream of the wealth of material ready for some gifted novelist's pen in the brilliant artist life of our own New Orleans.

In a recent interview by a New Orlean paper she said: "Of course, to a certain extent, my characters are drawn from life though never exact portraits. My favorite heroine is Mam'selle in my story of a 'Modern Heathen.' No, I rarely urge aspirants to take up a literary career. Success is obtainable only at the price of the most exhausting labor."

mental exertion could not fail to have its effects on her nervous system.

At one time she found herself tired out and weak from her uninterrupted work; she became nervous and incapable of work; she even saw nervous prostration staring her in the face. The general toning up that her system needed so badly she found in Paine's celery compound. To-day she is perfectly well and strong again, busy as ever with brain abd pen, and grateful to Paine's celery compound for the timely help when failure and trouble and despair seemed about to close round her and shut her off from everything that was dear.

"Your constant brain work must tell on your strength," observed the reporter. "Yes; you have no idea how much. I am at my desk for nine or ten hours a day," she replied. "I am careful to obey the laws of

I take a little of the compound, and I am strong and free from pain at once. I never enjoyed such hoveancy, of spirits and soundness of such buoyancy of spirits and soundness of body before I made the acquaintance of Paine's celery compound. Scarcely a day passes that I do not urge some friend to take it. For neuralgia, indigestion, nervous prostration and blood disorders, I am con-vinced that there is nothing like Paine's

The proposition is so absurd that we cannot imagine even the wildest membe of the House of Delegates giving it serious support.

THE ANTI-TRUST LAW ENFORCEABLE.

The Olney opinion that the anti-trust law is not enforceable has not been sus tained by the courts. In fact, it has been pretty thoroughly smashed.

At the meeting of the State Bar As ociation of Illinois Judge John Barton ayne of Chicago said that there was practical denial of justice in that city 'In Cook County," he asserted, "no man who has sufficient influence to see the County Commissioners can be brought to trial for any crime on earth."

This is a startling charge, but does true? Is it not substantially true of other cities besides Chicago, in fact, of all the large cities of the Union?

WORK OF THE SALVATION ARMY.

A recent editorial in the Post-Dispatch In the matter of conduit privileges this asking what the Salvation Army is doing nies. The city is to pay for carry- pleasure in setting before its readers. The officers report that three years ago the Salvation Army had but one hall in St. Louis in which meetings were held nightly. To-day the Army is conducting nightly services in seven downtown halls, on which it pays rent aggre gating nearly $400 a month. The staff of officers over these posts has increased from two to sixteen. During the past three months 67,544 persons have attended the Army's meetings in this city. The officers have held 750 open air meetings, visited 174 house and distributed 15,837 copies of the War Cry. The Christmas dinner which the Army gave to 2,000 poor persons was eported in the Post-Dispatch, and was a remarkable success. The public will be pleased to learn that the work of the Salvation Army is carried forward so vigorously. Necessarily a large part of that work must be done under conditions that are not shared in by the general public. But as every is interested in knowing at all time what the Army is doing, the Post-Dis patch took the liberty of asking for information. The answer is all that could be desired.

The poor old Republic bobs up with All that is necessary, therefore, in the opinion of Judge Baker, to smash the Linseed Oil Trust or any other similar trust is for the "proper person" to bring suit. If the Attorney-General of the United States is not the proper person, who is?

made remarkable, yes, phenomenal, progress in St. Louis since Brigadier French took charge of the Midland Division. During the month of September the attendance at the army meetings was very near 20,000. Estimating that 12,000 of this number are regular attendants, we still have 8,000 who probably never attended church services before. In that month there were in the neighborhood of 100 conversions and about 5,000 War Crys sold on the streets, and over 225 "open airs" held. The corps at 1317 Franklin avenue is as large in numbers as any good-sized church organisation, and the members are doing unfold good in visiting the sick and caring for the hungry and giving Christian burial to the dead in families who are too poor to "pay a preacher to conduct the services," to use their own

The cigarette has killed more of our promising young men during the past decade than has sickness. The smoking of these deadly poisonous articles has become so common that the people have just cause for alarm. Last year there were manufactured in this country over one and a half billion cigarettes. These figures are sufficient to frighten the thoughtful man. Something must be done to stop this habit. It is gaining ground day after day, and becomes more popular and more general every day. Some stringent means must be speedily adopted.

Here is a question worthy of the labor of the educator, and one when it is properly answered will be for the great benefit of the rising generation. How shall we stop

An Advocate of Montreal Brings Action Against His Children.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan 29.—Jos. Vincent Herreboudt, formerly of Bruges, Belgium, now a Montreal advocate, has sued his children, Joseph Leon Herreboudt, formerly of Montreal, but now of Bruges; Jean Herreboudt, the Vicomtesse Roual D'Ivey; Count Jean De Seiges and others for an allowance of $50 per month. He alleges that he is reduced to poverty and has no means of earning a livelihood. His son Joseph Leon Herreboudt, 24 years old, is, he says, the director general of the Sun Life Insurance Co. of Montreal, at Brussels, and is earning large sums of money. His son-in-law, the Vicomte D'Ivey, he claims, is worth $50,000. His daughter, Clara Herreboudt, he states, lives at Brussels with her mother, possesses a great talent for designing and painting, and is thereby able to earn large sums of money. Besides providing for Fimself, Mr. Herreboudt alleges that he is obliged to support his daughter, Bertha, who is married to Jules Von De Kerkhove, who is unable to support her. He further says that he belongs to a noble family in Belgium, and that he ocupied a high social position before his reverses of fortune. MONTREAL, Que., Jan 29 .- Jos. Vincent

Mort Green entered the Free Methodist revival meeting Sunday night in time to hear Mrs. Houston explain, in giving her "experience," that she had just discarded her diamonds and other jewelry as ungodly. She said she left all of her finery on her dresser when she left her house for church.

Green left the church and broke into the Houston house. He took everything in sight, and left a note, saying he was glad he could remove temptation from the good woman. The authorities are after him.

Huntington to secure the passage of a refunding bill by Congress for the Central Pacific Railroad, is —much pleased with the letter which Huntington yesterday caused to be printed in the Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Mayor says the fact that Mr. Huntington has seen fit to attack him in print is proof that the railway magnate is desperse from a realization of the peril of the refunding bill. Mayor Sutro is flooding members of Congress, Cabinet officers and President Cleveland with documents which he says tend to show the corrupt means Mr. Huntington has formerly employed to secure the passage by Congress of measures favorable to the Central and Southern Pacific Railroads.

Action was taken in New York on recommendation of Chief of Police Conlin. He says that in all large cities not more than 2 per cent of the patrons of cheap lodging houses are deserving, the rest being the seum of the city.

"Taking these figures as applicable to St. Louis," said Chief Harrigan, "what are you to do with the lodgers when the houses are closed? They will have to sleep on the streets, and such as are the scum of the city will be driven to desperation. I do not approve of imposing such unnecessary hardships. Besides, even were it wise to deprive the undeserving of shelter, it should be remembered that the 2 per cent who are deserving would be wrongfully made to suffer."

Among the proprietors of Levee lodginghouses Harry Price, at No. 8 North Leves, was the most emphatic in his protest.

"These men have to sleep somewhere," said Price. "If the city should close the lodging-houses it will have to provide for them some other way. How are they going to do it? I think it would be a bad thing for the city. I don't think the men who sleep at lodging-houses are a bad lot altogether. Sometimes they greinto a fight, but that's all. These lodging-houses give a man a bed at night and a cup of coffee in the morning, all for 5 cents, and I think they are a good thing." tions.

MR. SIMMONS DENIES IT.

A Rumor That a Big Retail Business Would Be Abandoned.

A rumor was circulated Wednesday that the Simmons Hardware Co. had decided at a meeting Tuesday to discontinue its retail establishment on North Broadway, the largest in the country, and confine itself to the wholesale trade.

President E. C. Simmons was seen at noon and stated that there was no proposition to discontinue the retail branch. A proposition was being discussed for discontinuing one or two departments, but even that is still undecided.

"I see no reason why we should abandon this branch," said Mr. Simmons, "as it is proving most profitable. One or two gentlement believe it will be abandoned. If said a proving most profitable. Several fishermen and others who have seen vessels on the Long Island coast not far from this city report that they have understood for some time that at least two vessels were being fitted out for a foreign cruise of some sort. The work of fitting out the vessels has been in progress for months, and it is stated that all three vessels have reached Cuba in safety. They passed out of the Sound at different times by Montauk Point and New London. The Government people were watching the New York end of the island, and were not expecting that fillbusters would leave by this route. The last vessel sailed about a month ago. It is understood that arms and ammunition with which the vessels were laden came from the Connecticut factories. nition with which the vessels were came from the Connecticut factories.

Col. Tom Hunt's life insurance, which has already obtained considerable notoriety, has at last found its way into the courts. His son, Thomas Abjah Hunt, filed a suit in the Circuit Court Wednesday against the Bankers' Life Association of Des Moines, Io., on a policy for $1,000.

This policy was on the life of Thomas W. Hunt. It was issued July Z last. Aug. 5 Col. Hunt transferred it to his son. The petition filed Wednesday alleges that demand has repeatedly been made upon the company for the payment of the policy, but it has refused to settle.

Sept. 30 Col. Tom Hunt died suddenly at St. Paul. After his death it was found that he carried nearly $30,000 life insurance, most of which had been taken out a short time prior to his death. This led to much speculation about his death and there was an investigation by the insurance companies.

A further sensational feature was given to the case when Mrs. Ada Wilson McCue, a widow residing in St. Louis, advanced a claim that $35,000 of the naurance belonged to her, that amount having been owed to have advanced large sums to the Colonel.

This suit is probably the forerunner of others of like nature.

suspect that the order of absorption which they had arranged in their minds was about to be exactly reversed.

Things went along in this fashion for weeks, with a large element of the public still in doubt as to what would be the final outcome of the alliance, until on Jan. 21, Col. Louis Bohle boldly marched up to Uncle Filley in the corridor of the Southern Hotel and asked him if he would go to the Globe-Democrat Building to have a conference with the editor. Boble had not spoken to Filley before for twenty-five years. Of course Uncle Filley would go, and gally he strode out of the hotel resting on an arm of the facilities Bohle. He was conducted to one of Bohle's darriages in waiting and was whirled away to the G.-D. Building.

Uncle Filley was whisked to the seventh floor, and directed to the editor's sgritum. How long he remained in the sanctum 's mot known, but it is known positively that when a few hours afterward Col. Dan Houser, who pays the freight, read in the Post-Dispatch a brief account of Filley's visit to McCullagh he fumed and tore around the Southern Hotel lobby where he was then mingling with the Republican bir wigs there assembled, like a madman and threatened all sorts of vengeance for this desscration of the "Temple of Truth."

Whether or not Col. Houser has tried to wreak the vengeance hem then threatened is not known, but certain it is that appearance are against him, for did not Editor McCullagh, a few days after the visit of those Filley, try masterfully to scotch the Waibridge gubernatorial boom at the behest of "De Ole Man?"

Tuesday morning Mrs. Hennessey told a Post-Dispatch reporter that she would not fight her husband's application for a divorce because she was only too glad to get rid of him.

"Alimony!" she exclaimed after the reporter. "Why, I've been giving him money right along, so it wouldn't do any good for me to ask for alimony."

But Mrs. Hennessey has been thinking over her wrongs and she has concluded that it would be letting Bill down too easy to let him get a divorce without any trouble, so she has decided to file a cross-bill. She intends to consult a lawyer forthwith and her contemplated cross-bill will contain all the charges made by her Tuesday against Mr. Hennessey and any others that Mrs. Hennessey and any others that Mrs. Hennessey and any others that Mrs. Hennessey can think of in the interim.

The Peabody Trial Over and Net One Sensation Produced.

The trial of Judge Thomas Peabody was brought to a close Tuesday afternoon, but the decision of Mayor Walbridge is not looked for until next week. The general impression is that the charges have not been sustained and that his honor will have no alternative but to allow the Judge to remain on the bench. No sensational testimony was developed during the progress of the trial in spite of the declarations made beforehand that some startling revelations would be made.

Eugene Hansman was the mest important witness called and his statement proved a great disappointment to the prosecution. He was expected to testify that he had had dealings with the firm of Bentley & Peabody since the appointment of the intert to the bench. He swore, however, that such was not the case.

DELEGATE JUDY'S CONDUIT BILL

Regarded With Suspicion by the Board of Public Improvements.

WHAT POWER'S BEHIND IT?

An Idea That It May Be Intended as a Complication for Wire-Users' Benefit.

Delegate Judy sprang a surprise Tuesday

The backers of the scheme are discreetly remaining in the back-ground, but it is remaining in the back-ground, but it is understood that the promoters are the big wire-using companies, including the Bell Telephone, the Western Union, the Edison Electric and the Municipal Electric. It is supposed that they have come together and that their attorneys drafted the Judy bill. Substantially the bill gives to the company the right to construct underfround subways all over the city, and it must complete within two years a subway 6 feet wide and 7 feet deep from Cass to Clark avenue and from Main to Seventeenth street. Openings to the main subways shall not be less than 600 feet apart. It is made incumbent upon the builders of the subways that they shall provide space for the wires of all electric companies, as well as for those of the city, but the rate of compensation has not been decided upon. The city is given the right to purchase the conduits at the end of ten years.

As the bill stands it is simply a repetition of the Sutter franchise, only on a more elaborate scale. It is, when boiled down, simply a grant to a private corporation. The St. Louis Electric is to be given for nothing a franchise which, if it stood the test of the courts, would be worth millions of dollars. But it is not regarded as probable that it would stand even if it passed the Municipal Assembly and received the approval of the Mayor. The Sutter franchise is still in the Supreme Court, and if it is sustained on a rehearing the new franchise would be in valid. If the Sutter franchise is declared of the Salvation Army Slum Corps, with headquarters at 708 South Second street, he has assumed a meek and lowly mein. This has assumed a meek and lowly mein. This led the young toughs who abound in that section of the city to regard him as an easy mark for their jibes and taunts. Up to Tuesday evening they had been content with personal remarks and offensive references, but Haushoffen looked so soft that severes tactics were resorted to.

About 8 o'clock Tuesday evening the corps threw out a skirmish line in the direction of Poplar street. Haushoffen was detailed as a member of the foreign here.

STRANGE TITLE TO A THRONE

Refusing to Select a Consort From Among the Chiefs the Queen Was Forced to Abandon Marriage.

Torced to Abandon Marriage.

Margaret Young, the Queen of Manus, the dead, Her demise is the climax of one of the most singular of the many strange events which go to make up the history of the South Sea Islands.

To the European who reads this news it will likely be taken to mean that awoman of dark skin and learned in the lord of savagury has been gathered to her fath; as Not 26. When she grew to girlhood, she was sent to Apia to school.

The story goes on to relate how she fell in love with a young chief and went home to acquaint her people with her choice. While there the King died, and she was chagen Queen. Protesting against the honor, she was dragged to the royal palace, and there imprisoned, not even being allowed to look upon the faces of her people, but dictating from behind a screen to her privy council. To all those to whom any knowledge of Samoan customs has come the absurdity of the situation is apparent. But many are the uninitiated, and the situation enkindled a glow of modern knight errantry within the breast of Young America.

America.

One young man from Massachusetts wrote to the captain of a sailing vessel to know how many guns could be mounted on his ship, and how many men could be accommodated. Another, from Van Buren, Mich., modated. Another, from Van Buren, Mich. said that he was the son of wealthy parents and desired to fly to the rescue of this lovely Queen of Misery. Another brave young man from Chicago said that he owned a steam yacht, and was only taking time to have his vessels' hull covered with iron to resist the spears and arrows of the furious natives. The latter statement seemed more than riddiculous, when it is considered that the crack of a Winchester rife is as familiar a sound in the Samoan forests as it is in the forests of Washington State.

Jim Hall in Town.

Jim Hall, the Australian pugllist, who was defeated last week by Joe Choynski, is in St. Louis to-day on his way to El Paso from Pittsburg, accompanied by a party of Maher admirers from the same place. Hall will be one of Maher's seconds in his coming fight with Bob Fitzsimmons.

New Canning Process.

A vacuum process of caning fruits in glass has been invented, which it is prophesied will doom forever the old-fashioned and extremely obnoxious tins. All the deleterious gases generated in cooking the fruit, and even the air, are extracted by this new method, so that fermentation is reduced to a minimum. No solder is used and each jar is opened by making a puncture with a penknife, after which the cover can be lifted off entirely.

Club night before last was discussing the question of acquaintances, remarks the New York Press. One well-known lawyer said he knew as many people as any man in the room, he did not care who he was. I asked if he could say how many acquaintances he had—not friends merely, but persons known casually and slightly. After thinking it over he said, "10,000."

"I bet $50 to $5." said another of the party, "that you cannot name 1,000 persons of your acquaintance, and give you all night to do it." The bet was made, and the lawyer began, a friend keeping tally. When, after two hours of hard thinking, he had reacherd between 500 and 600, he was going very slow and straining terribly. At midnight he was so far from the 1,000 mark that the party broke up in disgust.

I doubt if there is a man in this country who could write down the names of 1,000 acquaintances at a moment's notice. I don't believe there are five men in the United States who are acquainted with 10,000 people. Dan Lamont, Secretary of War, is said to know more faces than any other man. He made a study of faces when Mr. Cleveland's private Secretary, and became indispensable to the President. It might be said that there are many politicians who know more than 10,000 people personally, but can't rely upon a political acquaintance. The politician has a way of pretending to know every living man who has a vote. Dr. Chauncey M. Depew probably has as wide an acquaintance as any man we know. Many men remember faces without being able to recall names. That is not an acquaintance it will not do to say we have seen such annot recollect his name.

Bicycle Saves a Train.

Bicycle Saves a Train.

An instance where a wheelman has been abzle to avert a serious railroad accident is reported from Barcelona, Spain. On the railroad to Lerida the highway runs along the track for quite a distance, and a bicyclist, who was out touring, noticed how the two last cars of a freight train broke loose on a steep grade, and began to run back with an ominous rapidity. He spurted in the same direction along the road, and with great presence of mind he announced the fact to the engiser of a train standing on the track, who at once started back to avoid getting the full force of the two cars; thus, what might have been a great disaster, was averted; still the force of the collision was so great that one of the two freight cars was demolished, and the front of the engine parity dismantled. Except. for a severe shaking up no one was hurt on the train.

Turkey is properly Turkia, "the land of the Turks." It is called the Ottomah empire from the great Sultan, Othman I. The term sub-lime porte, as applied to the Turkish Government, arose from the magnificent gate entrance to the imperial palace in Constantinople.

The melancholy affair was laid before me.
I looked at Ponto. Ponto was sitting there with a studied air of indifference, apparently half asleep. I called him "Ponto!"
He looked towards me and lifted his heavy eyelids.
"Did you call me, master? I was only asleep. I was dreaming—I was dreaming of most because that is impossible, even to a man. THE AMISH CASES. Punished in an Indiana Court for

Marrying Cousins. DECATUR, Ind., Jan. 29.-Judge Heller DECATUR, Ind., Jan. 23.—Judge Heller has handed down his decisions in the Amish cases. Jacob Swartz was found guilty of marrying cousins and solemnizing marriage without license and fined $5 for each offense. David Swartz was found guilty on two indictments for marrying cousins without license and fined $5 for each offense. There was great surprise in court when the attorney for the defendants announced that the remaining preachers charged with violating marriage laws would plead guilty and throw themselves on the mercy of the court. Judge Heller was very lenient with them, assessing the lowest possible fine of $5 for each offense. Those fined are Jacob Swartz, David Swartz, Christian Swartz, all deacons of the church.

SCARED INTO CONVULSIONS. Truant Officer Frightens a School Girl

Almost to Death. special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29.—Fourteen-year-old Annie Donnelly of Hemstead, L. I., on Mon-Annie Donnelly of Hemstead, L. I., on Monday did not go to school on account of some slight indisposition. Thomas Hayden, the truant officer, about 9:30 a. m., found the girl at her home, and threatened to have her arrested. This so frightened the child that she went into convulsions, in which condition she remained until 3 o'clock yesterday morning, when Dr. Finn brought her back to consciousness. Annie is still very much frightened, and the physician fears a return of the spasms. He says that if she can keep quiet she will probably recover.

METEORIC BUBBLE.

A Remarkable Sight Witnessed in Northern Michigan.

NIRVANA, Mich., Jan. 29.-A remarka ble phenomenon occurred about half a mile east of the Nirvana station last night. A large fire-ball about the size of a bushel basket fell to the earth at an angle of about 20 degs. When it struck the snow it arose and floated off at the same angle it fell, until it disappeared behind the hills. It is thought to have been one of the meteoric bubbles which are sometimes seen in this latitude, varying in size from a hat to the one here mentioned, and consisting of a phosphorescent gas, inclosed by a thin film. In the year 1832 thousands of these meteoric bubbles fall throughout this country, and many people thought the world was coming to an end. ble phenomenon occurred about half a mile

REFORM IN CHICAGO.

Effort to Purify the Government of the A New York Carpenter Starving to Big City.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 29.—Consolidation of he towns of Chicago into one big city is the object of Judge C. C. Kohlsaat, the new President of the Union League Club. At the auguration of the officers of the club last night the President in his speech said:

"In the year to come I hope to give my influence to further legislation for civic "In the year to come I hope to give my influence to further legislation for civic reform. There are crying evils in this city and the club should take a hand in doing away with one of them. The towns of this city should be consolidated into one great city. This matter of towns is a remnant of the old days and ought to be abolished. There are other evils which we ought to fish, and in this interchange of thought in the clubs we ought to be abolished. There are other evils which we ought in the clubs we ought to be abolished. There are other evils which we ought in the clubs we ought to be able to accomplish great ends. The other aim of the club should be to promulgate knowledge, so that the people will help to bring about the necessary reforms."

Elbridge G. Keith in his address laid stress on the importance of carrying out one of the functions of the club—that of exposing and uprooting municipal rottenness. "Tammany is repeating itself here in Chricago." said Mr. Keith.

"The big and little bosses are distributing the patronage as they please, and when one of us attempts to remonstrate we are told to mind our own business. We ought to plead for better men at Washington, at Springfield and in Chicago. This club ought to take up the warfare against the tax-dodger, the bribe-taker and the corrupter and bring them all to justice."

C. D. Roys urged the Committee on Political Action to be more aggressive. He told of a State Senator who had asked him for $10,000 in order to get a bill through a committee and of another case, in Chicago, where he could not get an ordinance passed through the Council because he would not bribe the Aldermen. He deplored the inactivity of the Political Action Committee and said there was a great field opened for the redemption of the city from the hands of the politicians.

John K. Gowdy was re-elected chairman, after the hottest fight ever known in the State. May 7 was fixed as the date and Indianapolis the place for holding the State convention, which will nominate a State ticket and select four delegates at large to the Republican National Convention at St. Louis. The basis of representation was fixed at one delegate for each 200 votes cast for W. D. Owen for Secretary of State in 1894. March 19 was fixed as the date of the district conventions, to select district delegates to the national convention.

Hatch of Missouri spoke to a large audience. Col. Hatch announced himself as a Democrat, and urged Democrats to send silver men to the Chicago Convention. He dwelt at length on the depressed condition of agriculture and the industrial interests generally.

He was followed by Alexander J. Wedderburne of the National Committee of the silver organization, who urged that the people study the silver question and organize to elect a silver President in their several parties if possible, and, if this was impossible, then to go outside, I. L. Johnson of Culpeper made a strong speech on the same lines.

The pig iron market shows an active inquiry in lots of 1,000 to 3,500 tons, but orders, as yet, are slow to follow. Much of this delay is due to the fact that prices are $2.50 to $3 higher on Northern foundry grades than they were a year ago; hence the hesitancy. Finished iron and steel are active, and a contract for between $,000 and 10,000 tons of tank steel for a pipe line was placed at an advance of $3 per ton over the price current the previous week. Billets are higher at $19.50 and in considerable demand. The South Chicago works of the steel company resumed on double turn Jan. 27, after a shut-down of four weeks, with a large tonnage booked. the coat collar, swung him into the siste and dragged him to her desk. He was straightened up suddenly, then forced down rapidly upon the platform, until his teeth ratified. Endeavoring three times to get up, the dose was repeated. After school the teacher read the riot act to him and then let him go.

With Will Dunbar and David Pulver, two other lads, Hardy went to school before daylight yesterday and made preparations to look the teacher out. Miss Maynard could not get in, and looking through the keyhole, called for a surrender and was laughed at. She secured a stick of cordwood and made an onslaught on the door, which gave in. Another pupil ran to the house of Trustee John Mason. Hardy tried to climb out of a window, but was caught by the heels and drawn back to the door.

The teacher told the other boys to stay where they were, or she would break every bone in their bodies if she had to follow them forever to do so. They stood still. Miss Maynard then spanked Hardy with a ruler until he begged for mercy. By this time Trustee Mason arrived and was put on guard at the door while the red-headed school marm caught Dunbar and Pulver and gave them a whipping. The bell was then rung, school commenced and everything passed off serenely.

Hardy's father went to school and made his son apologize, Trustee Mason says the other two must apologize or be expelled. The teacher waives the apology and says she can handle the pupils.

Several menths ago Dr. Fortune preached a sermon on the atonement which was not regarded as orthodox by some of the members, and which was adversely criticised by the church papers and some of the leading Baptist divines. In view of the strictures upon Dr. Fortune he tendered his resignation to the church, which refused to accept it by a large majority. Several of the members were still dissatisfied and renewed their charges of heresy against Dr. Fortune. They insisted upon calling acouncil to try him, but the majority refused to do so, As the minority members persisted the majority withdrew its fellowship from them at a recent meeting. Members of the minority say that no attention will be paid to the council, as they do not recognize its jurisdiction.

Harris Herrmann, & years old, a homeless carpenter.

At 8 p. m. a policeman found him sitting on the curbstone at Seventh street and Avenue B. The patroiman thought at first that he was intoxicated, so he shook him and told him that he would have to move on. The man looked up, showing a face emaciated and eyes that were filled with tears, and said:

"Sir, I can go no further; I have walked until I can no longer move."

He then told the policeman that he had searched in vain for work, and had begged in vain for food. He had gone from house to house, he said, three days, begging a mouthful of food, and on every side he had met with the most brutal treatment and had been threatened with arrest unless he left immediately.

In those three days, Herrmann said, he had been threatened with arrest unless he left immediately.

In those three days, Herrmann said, he had no food. He had slept in hallways whenever he had been permitted and walked the streets at other times. Before the policeman found him, he says, he had applied at several station houses, asking for a place to sleep. He was ordered to leave, as there was no place for him. When taken to Bellevue Hospital, the man was examined by the physicians, who said there was not the slightest doubt but that he was in the last stages of starvation. At that time Herrmann was too weak to speak. ime.

The body was found hanging from a bed post in a hotel and on a table in the room was the following note:

"Dear Sir: Do not accuse anybody of my death. I am finished with life, I am disgusted with my family. I do not require any noise after my death. I have no papers. I do not wish anybody to know the other motives. Once more, keep silent, so as not to have any scandal.

"May God bless you.

"I am a native of Peru."

It was supposed that the dead man was Caseres and he had committed suicide. A few days later, officials of the legation of the Argentine Republic identified him as Abbe Segui, a member of a rich family, and at one time was Chief Chaplain of the Argentine army.

The legation officials thought that Segui had been murdered. It was found that an unindentified man had forged Segui's signature to a draft for $600, and had obtained the money from a bank in Havre several months afterward before Robello was arrested at Toulon for taking part in a brawl. He was personating Gabriel Segui at the Robiliwan acceptance of the proving that Pebulice have succeeded in proving that
